

FINAL PLANS FOR
"LEXINGTON DAY"
TO BE ANNOUNCED

Committee Will Complete Arrangements for Event at Meeting Friday

R. O. T. C. FIELD DAY
TO BE IN AFTERNOON

General Discussion of Activities Is Held By Group Monday

Final plans for "Lexington Day" to be held at the university May 28 are nearly complete, according to members of the committee on arrangements. The members of the university committee, composed of M. J. Crutcher, Major O. S. Meredith, and Prof. L. J. Horlacher, met Monday at a luncheon meeting at the Phoenix hotel with the committee representing the Chamber of Commerce, which is composed of Sam McCormick, Fred B. Wachs, Thomas R. Underwood, Charles B. Brent, and L. K. Frankel.

At the meeting Monday, a general discussion was held concerning the activities for the day. The committee representing the university was selected to have charge of the arrangement of the program for that day, while the committee representing the Board of Commerce will advertise the affair in an endeavor to interest townspeople.

Another joint meeting of the committees was announced for 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, at which the final plans for the day will be officially announced. At this meeting, a complete program will be issued concerning the activities for the entire day.

A news campaign will be started Sunday by the committees in charge. During this campaign news items will be sent to the city newspapers daily. These daily announcements will enable the citizens of Lexington to learn something of the program planned for "Lexington Day."

All fraternal, civic, or religious organizations are urged to attend in bodies so that guides may be provided for their use.

The program will open with a brief address by a university official at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at Memorial hall. At 10:15 a. m., and at 15-minute intervals thereafter, parties will be started from Memorial hall on tours of the campus. These parties will be under the direction of special guides, and a host will be on hand at each building to cite points of special interest.

The University Commons will be open to persons desiring luncheon on the campus, and at 2 p. m. the military activities will begin on Stoll field.

Short addresses on the university and Lexington Day will be made at the civic luncheon club meetings next week in preparation for the event.

In the morning the school work will proceed as usual and the visitors will be given a chance to inspect the class rooms, work-shops, and laboratories of the university. In the afternoon the Military department will hold their annual Field day. Many prizes and awards will be given for competitive drill which will be for both company and individual. Perishing Rifles will give an exhibition and there will be a drill by the band.

All citizens of Lexington are urged to visit the university on that day and help make the occasion an annual event in the school year.

COSMOPOLITAN
CLUB HAS PICNIC

Bonfire Supper Given Saturday Night at City Reservoir Concludes Monthly Meetings of Group

A bonfire supper, given Saturday night at the city reservoir by Dr. and Mrs. Bedford, concluded the 1930-31 monthly meetings of the Cosmopolitan club. Special guests of honor were: Dr. Robinson Shiphard, president of Lincoln Memorial University of Harrogate, Tenn.; Mrs. Shiphard, Mrs. Frank L. McVey, and Mrs. John G. Towles, of Paris.

Guests and the members were transported by automobile to reservoir. A number of three from the university, V. M. C. A., where they met to have a group picture.

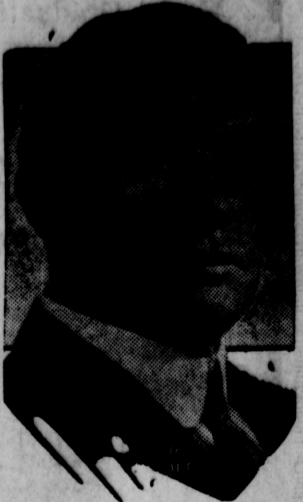

A baseball game played between members of the club was played before the supper. The supper consisted of a plate lunch. Each member roasted his own wieners. A marshmallow roast followed the supper.

Immediately after the supper a treasure hunt was organized and conducted by torch light. The trail led around the reservoir and a box of candy was buried at the end of the trail. Stories and monologues were given about the bonfire by members until a slight rain brought the meeting to a close.

Madeline Chesnut was re-elected president of the club for the coming year at the last business meeting. Jean Corigan was elected vice-president, and Mildred Neal was voted secretary-treasurer.

About 50 members of the club were present for the picnic.

Jesse Lewis, president of Phi Alpha Delta, will preside at the convocation and will introduce Senator Barkley. President McVey and Dean Evans will also be present.

Senator Barkley has been a member of Congress since 1913, and was elected to the United States Senate in 1927 for the term from 1927 to 1933. Before his election to Congress, he practiced law in Western Kentucky and was prosecuting attorney of McCracken county from 1900 to 1913.

Authorities of University Reading Room and Library
Allow Undergraduate Students to Read Comic Sheets

By A. A. DAUGHERTY

The funnies have come! Beginning yesterday the authorities of the main library reading room have adopted the policy of placing the comic supplements to the Sunday papers on the reading rack instead of throwing them away as heretofore.

"I think that it is a most progressive step," remarked Mary Virginia Halley, Phi Beta Kappa initiate and retiring president of Mortar Board, in commenting on this radical innovation.

"There is nothing more amusing to me than the antics of the Gumps. They are so human. The other fun folks are interesting, too. Moon Mullins' diction is too unrefined, but Emmy is just darling. More power to them!"

C. B. Melcher, dean of men, is enthusiastic over the new policy. "I read all the funnies that I can get hold of," he declared. "I always read them before any other part of the paper."

"A man would sour if he didn't read the comics. They are happily amusing, but, without, have absolutely no deleterious effect upon the intellect."

"Jim, Moon Mullins, and Tommieville Jinks are my favorites. The Annual Exhibition

Of Students' Work
Will Begin June 1

Department of Art to Sponsor Display of University Talent

The annual exhibition of work by students in the department of art will open June 1 and will continue for two weeks, according to an announcement made yesterday by Prof. Edward W. Rannells, head of the department.

A review of the work done in the department this year shows that by students has won recognition in two prominent national exhibitions in which there were entries by many large schools of art and college art departments in the United States. Norman Neff, Louisville, an art major who will be graduated this year, won first honors with a canvas entered in the painting division of the fall exhibition of the College Art association in New York, and Mildred Shute, Ottumwa, Iowa, placed first in the black and white division of the association's spring exhibition this month.

Students in the department submitted designs in the annual textile design exhibition of the Art Center in New York, the clearing house for American designs. An entry made by Elsa Stratton, Lexington, was sold.

Another very practical application of art study, according to Professor Rannells, was a series of drawings made by Mabel Palmer, which reconstructed textile-marked shards found on the Tolu site in Crittenden county by Prof. W. D. Funkhouser and Prof. W. S. Webb. The drawings will be used to illustrate their forthcoming bulletin, No. 5, dealing with excavations on this site.

The department will make available for Kentucky high schools selections from this year's display for the purpose of stimulating interest in the subject of art where exhibitions are seen less often than in Lexington and Louisville, Professor Rannells said.

Stroller Meeting

There will be a meeting of Strollers, dramatic organization, at 7 o'clock tonight in the Kentucky office, according to an announcement given to The Kernel yesterday by Thomas L. Riley, director. All members are requested to attend.

U. K. PROFESSOR
MADE CHAIRMAN

J. D. Turner, Head of Department of Feed-Staffs at Experiment Station to Study Value of Grains

Prof. J. D. Turner, head of the department of feed stuffs, at the university Experiment Station, has been named chairman of a national committee to study the value of grain screenings as a feed material. His work will be under the auspices of the Feed Control Officials of America.

A vast sum of money is expended yearly by farmers and feeders through the United States. It has been estimated that approximately 5,000,000 tons of grain screenings are used yearly in the feeding of farm animals. Declaring that more fraud was practiced through the "grain screening" business than through any other line of feeds on the market, Professor Turner stated "There is no objection to the proper use of screenings in feed, but there is a ready objection to the illegitimate use of screenings refuse and waste material used in feeds under the term 'grain screenings'."

Professor Turner in his work at the experiment station annually analyzes thousands of samples of feed stuffs now on the market and he also requires the manufacturers guarantee on a tag showing the buyer the exact analysis and a complete list of the materials comprising the bag of feed. Now, by consulting the tag the buyer is able to tell whether or not he is buying a good quality of feed. Professor Turner has already been of great service to the buyers of feed stuffs in this state and his work on "grain screenings" will be another step toward the enlightenment of the buyer of such feeds.

THE SAME OLD STORY

Repeatedly, students have called attention to the fact that the campus walks are in a most deplorable condition. Repeatedly, The Kernel has made pleas for better walks, pointing out the obvious defects of the present system. The only reply that anyone has received is that the walks will gradually become traversable if students will only be patient and walk on them. Authorities state that the present "improvements," which, instead of remedying past defects have created more, are the only ones available within the university budget.

The student body has given its answer to the problem. New pathways running parallel to the original walks have been created. The lawn is worn with short cuts, there is no grass on either side of the campus walks. Although the general appearance of the campus has been ruined we are not sorry that this has happened because the student body has earnestly tried to tolerate existing conditions and has found them unbearable.

The matter of expense necessarily must be taken into consideration, but, making allowances for that, The Kernel maintains its stand of failing to understand in what way the university has profited by keeping these walks. Furthermore, as far as we can see, we think that if the gravel were raked off of the walks and the original dirt walks were left that the campus would be in much better condition than it is today. We would not mind sliding through the clay on a rainy day any more than we mind wading through mud holes, twisting our ankles, bruising our feet and ruining our shoes on these gravel walks, in fact, it would be a pleasure!

Students receive the brunt of the expense of the upkeep of these walks. The university has only had the expense of putting them down. Taking into consideration the present conditions, it is impossible for a student to wear a pair of shoes for over two weeks without having new heel caps put on them; each pair of heel caps cost the student twenty-five cents. There are over three thousand students attending this university, making a very conservative estimate, deducting two hundred dollars for those who have cars and are accustomed to riding from class to class, the gravel walks cost the student body five hundred and fifty dollars every two weeks—two hundred and twenty-five dollars a week, or one thousand one hundred dollars a month! This is why we do not condemn the students for their direct disobedience of university laws in walking on the grass or making new campus paths. No fair minded person could blame them for rebelling against gravel walks which cost them one thousand and one hundred dollars a month.

The Kernel hopes that authorities will take this matter into consideration and try to find some logical solution for the problem. If the expense of a gravel roller is too much we would suggest employing students who need work to rake the excess gravel off of the walks. In the future, unless some attempt is made to answer the students' pleas for better walks, we feel justified in stating that we would not condemn an organized student movement advocating absolute refusal to walk on the present walks and favoring establishment of entirely new student pathways.

HEREDITY AND CHEATING

An ideal attitude regarding the problem of cheating is taken by Dr. W. D. Funkhouser. He has an individual philosophy on the subject which is worth while from the student viewpoint as well as from the faculty outlook. Doctor Funkhouser, in discussing the matter, mentions the fact that it is seldom that students manage to fool the professors, that they too went to college and were surrounded by similar conditions and so know for what to look. However, he does not seem to take that familiar attitude, so common to the majority of professors, of very sanctimoniously warning the class of what he will do to them, following it with a dissertation upon the evils of taking someone else's work, then with a speech titled "Of Course I Trust You," and then when the final examination rolls around of patrolling the class which has been spread at least three seats apart, and given alternate sets of questions.

Doctor Funkhouser has a novel way of making the student feel ashamed to cheat. He does not lay the blame on you but on your family, states that there is a criminal streak in your character, if such things are common to you they are common to your kin. We think that this is the most logical piece of classroom reasoning on the matter of cheating on examinations that we have had the opportunity to hear. Any person who, in the face of such reasoning, which his courses definitely proves to be as near perfect as any tested and retested chemistry experiment, could have the nerve to cheat is beyond our conception.

Heretofore, the average student reasoning on the matter of cribbing on examinations has been that he is the only one who is responsible for it; that he is to blame; that his is the entire responsibility. In this way they seem to save their conscience, if they have any, and to arrive at the conclusion that it really does not matter anyway. Looking at it from Doctor Funkhouser's viewpoint it is merely a symbol of poor family, inherited weakness of character, and a characteristic which will go down in the families of the individuals who practice it as a minor criminal tendency. Who, after all, wants to admit that his family is inferior; that it is weak; that his children will have weak characters? What could be a more logical course of reasoning than to present these factors to the student for consideration in order to make him realize that he was not the only one to be taken into account for his cheating?

FACULTY CLUB

Starting with the express object of promoting social relations among its members, the University of Kentucky club has more than achieved that aim. Now, with almost 200 members enrolled and with "the Faculty Club rooms" maintained to the mutual profit of faculty and university, the club is becoming established as an institution on the campus.

The activities of the club consist of parties, teas, and informal gatherings designed to bring faculty members and their wives, children, or sweethearts, together. All members of the university assembly and graduate assistants are eligible to membership in the club, and may remain members and enjoy the use of the club rooms as long as they pay their dues and observe the by-laws of the club.

The club rooms are on the top floor of McVey hall and were provided by the university, and were furnished half by the club and half by the university. The lounge room is used for reading, conversation, and writing. The game room is available for such games as cards, chess and checkers. The committee room is used as a committee meeting room and lunch room. It is in these rooms, beautifully and informally furnished, and provided with books, magazines, and games, that the university staff members gather for good times. Every Sunday afternoon a tea is held for club members, their friends and visitors to the college. Two or three times during each semester parties are given. On occasional Saturday nights a half dozen or more members or guests gather for open house in the club rooms and dance, or play cards with congenial companions.

This opportunity for faculty members of the university to become acquainted with each other is invaluable. In no other organization, church, luncheon club, political meeting, are the members thrown together in such a sincerely informal way. Every member of the club finds some amusement he likes whether it be card playing, dancing, reading, talking, or loafing, and he finds a congenial soul who likes to do the same thing, too. New projects are conceived and new friendships born in the lounging room. Weary teachers find chance half hours of leisure here away from their offices and return to work refreshed, for the club rooms are also kept open during the day for use of members. The Faculty club and the Faculty club rooms are worthy enterprises which should be taken advantage of by everyone who has the opportunity. The university deserves commendation for sponsoring such an organization for the use of its employees.

U. K. SPEAKERS

From time to time during the past year, men, prominent in various fields and from many localities, have addressed groups of students and faculty members at the university. Each speaker has been engaged and sponsored by some campus organization. Each has brought something of his field to the people who have heard him, and, especially, to those who have been responsible for his appearance here.

Thursday morning, Senator Alben W. Barkley will speak before a Law College convocation to which members of the entire student body have been invited. For the first time in several years the law school convocation is being sponsored by an honorary legal fraternity. Members of Phi Alpha Delta have procured Senator Barkley and will be in charge of the convocation.

Phi Alpha Delta was installed on the university campus in 1914. It has as its purpose the establishment of a closer relationship between law students and practitioners in the legal profession. As a part of the program for the carrying this purpose into effect the organization has arranged for this speaker.

Senator Barkley, a true Kentuckian, is well-known throughout the state as an able lawyer and throughout the nation as an influential politician. His service in the legislative department of the United States has well fitted him to discuss "The Function of the Lobby in Legislation," which he has chosen as his subject for the convocation.

During the year, other prominent men have visited the university campus. Marclan Thalberg, noted pianist, appeared at vespers under the auspices of Phi Beta, honorary musical fraternity. Pan-Politikon has been instrumental in arranging a number of programs, outstanding among which was the convocation of March at which Dr. A. J. Barnouw, professor of Dutch history and art at Columbia University, spoke. Dr. Will Durant, modern philosopher, and "A. E." George Russell, the Irish poet and agriculturist economist, delivered addresses which were greatly enjoyed and which were inspiring to the student body.

Convocations of the College of Engineering have supplied the campus with many other outstanding speakers. The art department has brought excellent exhibits of various kinds of paintings to the campus for the benefit of students, faculty, and townspeople. Many other departments have done their share in providing a well-rounded university program of outside information.

For its own especial part, each department should be commended and encouraged to continue its activities through future school years. The honorary fraternities, which have shown enough energy to arrange programs, should be congratulated on their success.

LEXINGTON DAY

The first invitation ever extended to citizens of Lexington to visit the university has been issued and Thursday, May 28 townspeople will be the guests of this institution. The inception of a day which is set aside for the people of Lexington, when it is possible for them to visit the various departments of the institution and to learn the processes by which students here receive their educations, cannot but prove beneficial.

Many persons seem to believe that one of the most important features of college life is a small and friendly town in which the educational institution exists. Relations between the citizens of Lexington and students at the university have never been as agreeable as they should have been and The Kernel believes that townspeople and undergraduates have never had a proper understanding of each other. This perhaps largely is due to the fact that there has never been any real opportunity for the students and the citizens to meet on the same ground and thus to gain a more clarified and intellectual mutual understanding.

It is the hope of both authorities and students at the university that Lexington Day will prove an outstanding success; that the people of Lexington who visit our institution May 28 will be more wholeheartedly cooperative with future undertakings of the university; that we, as students here, may do our part to make our visitors agree with us in our belief that we have one of the most progressive and efficient of modern universities.

TO

I thought it was spring that I loved,
Spring, and white blossoms gay,
Cherry blooms that fill my heart
With pain and ecstasy.
I thought it was night that I loved,
Night and the great white way,
The moon, the good of lovers
That I loved to watch always.

But it was not these things, mignonne,
That within my heart held sway
But the sweet thought of you, dear heart,
That has kept and will keep me your slave.

BRADLEY KINCAID TO APPEAR IN KENTUCKY THEATRE

Famous Kentuckian To Sing Daily Starting Wednesday

Bradley Kincaid of station WLW will appear in person at the Kentucky on next Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday to sing his favorite old time songs and mountain ballads that have made a sensational radio "hit." WLW executives say that no radio entertainer ever has had such success as a ballad singer as Bradley Kincaid. He went to station WLW for the month of January to see if he would be as popular as he has been for the past four years at station WLS in Chicago. In those four weeks he received 50,000 letters from WLW listeners. This influenced him to sign a contract with station WLW to broadcast several times daily, and to appear in theatres under the management of the Croley Artists' Bureau.

He is a real Kentuckian, born in Garrard county in the edge of the Cumberland mountains just beyond the Bluegrass section of Kentucky. He left the state only when he went to war at the age of 21, but he went back to it after the war and stayed there five years more before he went to Chicago to go to college.

The songs Bradley Kincaid sings to the accompaniment of his "hound dog" guitar, are a part of his heritage and were handed down to him by word of mouth from generations of Kentuckians before him. Some of them never were written down until he put them in book form to satisfy the demand of his radio audience.

That "hound dog" guitar he mentions so often on the air is one of his most prized possessions, for it is the first musical instrument in the Kincaid family. Bradley's father was a great fox hunter, and used to go home after a hard day in the fields, snatch a bit of supper, get his old fox horn from behind the door, blow up his two fox hounds, and ride away to the hills for a night of hunting.

On one of these expeditions, he traded one of his fox hounds to a negro for a dilapidated guitar. After that, the Kincaid family always referred to the instrument as the "hound dog" guitar. All the ten Kincaid children learned to pick away on it, but Bradley was the most proficient at playing it, and it ultimately came to be regarded as his private property. He would sit by hours singing the old ballads he had heard his father and mother and their neighbors sing. Little did he dream that some day they would bring him fame and fortune.

The feature picture attraction during Kincaid's engagement will be Betty Compson, Elliot and J. C. Nugent in "Virtuous Husband."

'CATS FINISH 8TH IN TRACK MEET WITH 12 POINTS

Shipwreck Kelly Wins 100, Second in 220 and Fourth in Broadjump

O'BRYAN PLACES IN MILE

With Captain "Shipwreck" Kelly upsetting the dope and winning first place in the century and a second in the 220, the Wildcat track team scored 12 points to place eighth in the Southern Conference track meet held at Birmingham, Ala., last Saturday.

The way the 20 teams finished: Tulane, 31; Virginia, 29; Alabama, 28; N. C. U., 25; V. M. I., 18; Auburn, 14; L. S. U., 13; Kentucky, 12; Georgia, 9; Duke, 8; Tennessee, 6; V. P. I., 5; N. C. S., 5; Florida, 5; Vanderbilt, 4; South Carolina, 3; Mississippi A. and M., 3; Clemson, 3; Sewanee, 1; Georgia Tech, 0.

Shipwreck Kelly scored 11 of the points made by the Kentuckians, taking a first in the 100, a second in the 220-yard dash, and a fourth in the broad jump. The torrid weather of the Capstone seemed to bother the boys in Blue and none of them could seem to get started.

As the Kernel stated Friday, Tulane, a school from the Southern tip of the conference, won the meet, and seven out of the first ten teams in the meet were from the extreme South and were accustomed to the extreme heat which prevailed.

Captain Kelly who is undefeated in the 100 yard and 220 dashes in dual meets in varsity competition did the slowest hundred he has done for some weeks. He beat Wisner, Virginia captain to the tape by a step in the 100 yard dash, but the Cavalier returned to better the Kentucky captain in the 220. Kelly incidentally was the second high scorer of the meet making a total of 11 points trailing Wisner of Virginia by one point.

Freddy McLane qualified in the broad jump finals.

Several records fell in the ninth annual renewal of the conference classic. Stewart of Auburn established a new record in the high jump, attaining a height of 6 feet, 3 1/2 inches. Other record breakers were Brownlee of Duke in the low hurdles; Swart, V. P. I. in the shotput; Joyce, Alabama in the 440 dash; and the Alabama relay team.

Brownlee ran the hurdles in 24 seconds flat to smash Beard's 1924 record. Swart bettered Oelker's record by ten inches, putting the iron ball 47 feet, 7 1/2 inches. Joyce went the 440 in :49 upsetting the old record held by Roy of Clemson. The mile relay race was won by Alabama, setting new record for the event with 3:23. The old mark which was 3:23, was held by Vanderbilt.

"Jake" O'Bryant, Blue and White distance runner, doped to be out of the running in the mile surprised the experts with a fifth in the mile grind scoring Kentucky's twelfth point. He ran a great race but lost out in the home stretch pulling up fifth, back to Laue, Virginia and three others.

RANNELLS TO SPEAK

Prof. Edward W. Rannels, head of the art department, will speak at Morehead State Teachers College tomorrow on "Art." The address will be delivered in connection with an art exhibit.

Sneers Snickers Scandal

By WILLIAM ARDERY

The Magicians

We too tremendously were amused at the recently issued report of fraternity scholastic standings. In it the S. A. Es had listed 26 members. When we called this magic reduction to the attention of our two friends one of them pointed out that from their entire organization they should have been able to find 26 with a standing of 1.

THE GIRL WITH A ROSE

The day of the Rose Girl almost is ended and up to now we have had no very tempting offers from the Alpha Zetas, the Beta Sigas, the Alpha Delta Thetas, Delta Zetas (or do they still have a chapter here?) Eastern Stars, or Daughters of the American Revolution. Since we have had no propositions at all this week entirely without remuneration we choose:

Justine White

The White neophyte takes our flower because, as a freshette, she lists among her ardent admirers gentlemen whom juniorettes and seniorettes formerly believed should belong to them; because she has stage presence no end; because she and Duke Johnston stopped the Stroller show; because she dresses tastefully; because she is unimpeachable; because she is too far above the average U. K. ette to be a student here; because she has been fairly successful in clashes with authorities; because she most too awfully will be bored with school by next spring; because when one enters Smith hall the usual interrogation is, "Did you come for Justine, too?"

Gigolo

The gentleman was courting one of the suburban ettes, was quite ready to retire, had six cents. Street cars cost seven. "Margaret," he thought of the long walk home, "wonder could you lend me a penny?"

But on the Other Hand

Our freshette date saw the Guignol director in the Cottage, suggested that he looked "artistic," we understood her to say, "If he would give me a date I would make a two standing."

But to ruin utterly the story she had said, "If he would give me an A..."

Ordinary Occurrences

It occurs to us that several young ladies whom we know have so many camp dates they have decided that they will not be able to go at all...that Frank Hoover will live long in the memory of those who knew him or his work...that the Derby Extra published by The Herald was on the streets in 11 minutes by our stop watch—not nine...that we are writing this column clad only in a disreputable dressing gown of faded green and lying on the lawn in the shade of the old locust tree...that passing motorists turn to sneer...that we do not care...that a big brown bug is crawling over our copy...that we do care...that our Chow, Julia, is troubled...that when we hear a good orchestra we could kick ourselves for hoping it will play "Violets."

University Campus Club Incorporated

Articles of incorporation were filed Saturday in the office of the county clerk by the Campus Club. The incorporators are Edward Duval, W. L. Rast, G. P. Snyder, and J. M. Dillon.

The new corporation, which is described as a non-beneficial fraternity, is authorized under the articles to acquire real estate, organize for fraternity purposes, and become affiliated with a national organization. The amount of indebtedness is limited to $10,000.

SENIOR ENGINEERS VISIT EAST

Members of the senior class of the College of Engineering are making a tour of inspection through the industrial centers of the North and East. They left Wednesday and will return Sunday. Several faculty members accompanied the party which will visit Detroit, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and New York to inspect industrial and manufacturing plants. In Buffalo they will attend a banquet given by University of Kentucky alumni.

Barnyard Truth

From the wall of The Kernel newsroom: "It's not the way you look at women, it's the way they look at you."

And under it: "Yes, yea, brethren, even so! A parable, a parable in truth." We Want Romance

"You know," the freshman confided in a voice hushed with romance, "I think you are wonderful." "And who friend," yawned the Kappa R. O. T. C. sponsor, "gave you permission to think about me?"

University Band Entertains With Annual Banquet

The university band, the "Best Band in Dixie," held its annual banquet Monday night at the Lafayette hotel. After the banquet, members of the men's and the women's bands, who have been in the band for eight semesters were awarded diplomas for proficiency.

Eight men students and two women students received the diplomas. The men students who received diplomas are: Elden DuRand, Hugh Adcock, Gayle Hamon, Wiley Forman, John Buskie, George Buskie, Harold Ritter, Earl Michal, Beryl Bagardus. The two girls honored are: Mary Cooper and Ruth McFarland.

Guests at the banquet were: Dean Paul Prentice Boyd, Professor and Mrs. Carl Lampert, Miss Josephine, Parker, Lieut. Howard Criswell, Charles G. Dickerson, Orea K. Barnes, Ted Cassidy, Elmer Sulzer and Mrs. Sulzer, Miss Virginia

DEAN BOYD WRITES ARTICLE

The current issue of the Journal of Higher Education contains an article by Dean Paul P. Boyd of the College of Arts and Science. The article, "Standards and Standardizing," deals with the problem of accrediting high schools and colleges. The curriculum of a high school, according to Dean Boyd, has a negligible effect on a student's success in college. The teacher's ability and the student's activity are far more important factors, the article states.

JUBILEE SINGERS BROADCAST

The university remote control radio station will have a special broadcast from 10:30-11 o'clock Saturday night. They will feature the Lexington Jubilee Singers at a request program. The singers are Negroes and consist of 22 men, under the direction of William Alexander.

Dougherty, Crosby Bean, and Marian Custard.

After the banquet Monday night, each senior was called upon to give a brief address.
